JOHN SHERRER SERVICES SET

Widely Known County Man Died On Sunday At San Francisco

The last rites for John Scherrer will be held from St. Patrick's Church on Wednesday morning at ten o'clock. Interment will be at the new Catholic cemetery.

This is according to an announcement made Monday noon by the O'Keefe mortuary chapel at the request of the family, whose members had arrived in Placerville from San Francisco where Mr. Scherrer passed away Sunday morning.

Mr. Scherrer had been hospitalized at San Francisco for about ten days some three weeks ago and although there were reports that an operation was being considered in the hope of improving his condition, immediate gains in his health led physicians to decide not to operate.

Mr. Scherrer returned to Placerville and attended to business affairs and two weeks ago Sunday morning returned to San Francisco.

He determined to return to the hospital for a thorough check-up of his condition and did so on Saturday morning of last week. His condition of health was not unusual at the time. He arose Saturday morning and attended to personal details and then reported at the hospital for a thorough checking over and was enrolled as a patient. Early Sunday morning he experienced some distress and telephoned his family, asking them to call up. (Continued on page 4)

J. P. Youngson Summoned

Services To Be Held Wednesday Afternoon At Georgetown Cemetery

John Peter Youngson, 80, resident in California forty years and for twenty years in El Dorado County, passed away Saturday night at the home of his son, Herman Youngson, at Spanish Dry Diggins.

The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the graveside at Georgetown cemetery, according to arrangements concluded with the assistance of the Dillinger chapel.

Mr. Youngson, a native of Indiana, was one of the family of eight children. He came to this county about twenty years ago and was engaged in ranching and general farming and during the past year had made his home with his son.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Emma Green and Mrs. Anna Hamilton, of Denver; and four brothers, Henry, Arthur, William and Louis, of Nebraska.

In addition to the son at whose home he passed away, he is survived by another son, Allan P. Youngson, of Long Beach; and by three daughters, Miss Helen Youngson, of Long Beach; Mrs. Mary Long, of Glen Ridge, New Jersey, and Mrs. Lulu Rose, of Fremont, Nebraska.

SUZANNE HICKMAN BRIDE OF ENSIGN IN NAVY AIR SERVICE

Miss Suzanne Hickman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carleton M. Hickman, of Sacramento and formerly of Blair's district, this county, was married at Reno Wednesday evening of last week to Ensign Michael Thomas Leonard, of the Navy air service.

The marriage came in the nature of an elopement, since Mr. Leonard, who had been stationed at San Diego, had received orders to report at Norfolk, Va., and the urgency of his orders left no time for a formal announcement of their betrothal.

Mrs. Leonard has abandoned her studies at Stanford University, where she has completed two years, and will join her husband in Norfolk as soon as he is established there.

The pair were accompanied to Reno by two of the bride's Stanford classmates, Miss Georgia Fanoie and Paul Lauritsen.

Ensign Leonard is the son of Mrs. Hugh Leonard, of Santa Cruz, a graduate of St. Mary's College and of the Naval Air School at Pensacola, Florida.

We join the many friends of the bride in all good wishes.

Neutrality Bill Change Drafted

General Debate On Act Acted To Continue Into Next Week

WASHINGTON, (UP) — Chairman Key Pittman, D., Nev., of the foreign relations committee agreed today to amend President Roosevelt's neutrality measure to eliminate 90-day credits and restore it to a strict cash-and-carry principle.

Pittman drafted the amendment after bi-partisan attacks on the 90-day credit section, which would have permitted the President to extend such credits to belligerent purchasers under certain conditions.

Simultaneously, a dozen members of the isolationist bloc met in the office of Sen. Hiram W. Johnson, R., California, and killed administration hopes to end general debate on the bill this week. The isolationists agreed that they had sufficient speakers on their schedule to carry the fight over into next week at least.

Mrs. Irwin was accompanied by Mrs. J. H. Rhodes and by Mrs. Arzella DeLaney, president of El Dorado Unit.

Willard Wilkinson was the lucky hunter of a party of four who succeeded in bringing in a forked horn the last day of the season. Others in the group were Floyd Brooks of Stockton, and Wesley Wilkinson and Don Veerkamp. The kill was reported as being on the "north side."

COUGARS SHOW IMPROVEMENT IN DEFEATING NEVADA CITY

13 To 7 Victory Saturday Paves Way For Opening Of League Schedule Against Jackson High School Eleven Saturday

Showing marked improvement in almost every department of the game, the Cougars held the Nevada City high school scoreless for the better part of four periods Saturday and won their football game at Marcus P. Bennett, Jr. Memorial Park, 13 to 7.

Although the entire squad showed a marked improvement in form over what was demonstrated earlier in the season against Preston and against the Placer Junior College reserves, Cougar rosters found the team work of the eleven at outstanding improvement over what it had been in recent games.

The Cougars open their CIF league schedule on Saturday afternoon of this week against the Jackson high school at Bennett Park. The game is scheduled to start at 2:30 o'clock.

In the Nevada City game, the two squads played a close first period and the Cougars got a break in the second period when Nevada City fumbled on receiving a punt deep in its own territory. This was the "go head" signal for the Cougars who scored with Boggs carrying the ball after a series of plays netting about twenty yards. The try for conversion was wide.

Leading 6 to 0 at half time, the Cougars took their second counter in the third session, Boggs taking the ball from Barrett on a reverse pass which was good for thirty-five yards, and the try for point was good.

Leading 13 to 0 the Cougars played the visitors to a standstill on the ground but were not so well able to meet an aerial attack which Nevada City uncoiled to score a touchdown and convert in the last two minutes of the game.

EL DORADOAN HOME FROM VISIT TO MIDDLE WEST

Otto J. Perschke, of near El Dorado, returned Thursday evening from a visit to Chicago, where he attended the national convention of the American Legion, and to South Bend, Indiana, his boy-hood home, which he had not visited for thirty-two years.

At South Bend, in a tour of the Studebaker automobile factory where, cars ago, he was employed, Perschke "stole the march" on three half-sisters who had no idea he was in the vicinity until he stopped on a tour of the factory to say "hello" to them.

The result was a "grand reunion." Presently the word was passed around that there was a man from Placerville, California (Otto's Legion cap told that) in the plant, and then there was "something doing."

Perschke was taken in charge by the factory publicity staff, photographed with his sisters, and conducted on a day-long tour of the entire plant. The photo appeared in the South Bend Tribune, and another is to be in a forthcoming edition of The Wheel.

"I just had to come home," Perschke said, "it was more than I could stand. Everybody was so nice to me that I just couldn't take it."

Enroute west he stopped in Denver for a brief visit.

$3,727 COUNTY LIQUOR FEES

Allocation For First Half Of Year $629,000 Less Than In 1938

SACRAMENTO—California cities and counties were listed to receive a total of $1,368,619.29 as their share of liquor license fees for the first six month period of 1939, it was announced by Richard E. Collins, chairman of the State Board of Equalization.

The allocation represents 50 percent of the total fees earned from liquor licenses during the first half of the current year. Collections from this source amounted to $2,737,238.59, the state's half of which goes into the general fund.

On the basis of actual licenses issued, El Dorado County will receive a total of $3,727.50, of which $2,318.75 will be paid to the unincorporated areas and $1,408.75 will be paid to Placerville.

Board members pointed out that the current allocation of liquor license fees is $629,563.22 under the distribution announced for the first half of 1938. This reduction was attributed to the fact that June licenses were upheld because the Legislature had not determined whether changes should be made in the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act. As a result a large portion of the license revenue ordinarily included in the first half allocation report necessarily will be listed in the second half distribution of fees.

Of the current allocation, the largest amount was to be distributed to Los Angeles County and its cities with a total of $350,109.15. The city and county of San Francisco was second with $306,881.70. Alpine, the smallest county in the state, received $99.37.

Mrs. Elbourn Died Friday

Placerville Native Will Be Laid At Rest In Rites Wednesday Afternoon

Last rites for Mrs. Pauline Elbourn are being planned in the care of Memory Chapel to be held at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the chapel. Interment will be at Union cemetery under the auspices of the Druid Circle, of which she was a member.

Earlier last week, she left her own home and walked to the postoffice and thence to the Cozad residence where she complained of not feeling well and was persuaded to remain at her sister's home for a few days.

A native of Placerville, born in 1867, Mrs. Elbourn lived for nearly forty years in Nebraska where her husband, the late George Elbourn, was engaged in farming.

Upon his retirement, the couple came to Placerville to make their home, residing on Reservoir Street.

In addition to the sister, Mrs. Josephine Cozad, Mrs. Elbourn is survived by a son, Frank, of Kansas City, and a daughter, Mrs. C. L. Sears, of Oskaloosa, Iowa. Friends have word from both that they will be in Placerville to attend the last rites.

U. S. Business Is Booming

Industrial Production Index About Equal Of High In Year 1929

WASHINGTON, (UP) — Business is booming today at a rate which might enable the treasury to balance there are cautious warnings of a budget next year, but bumps to come.

There is considerable alarm here over the accumulation of inventories — large stocks of merchandise and commodities—in the hands of distributors.

Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins a week ago warned of too rapid expansion of inventories. The administration's study of the situation is continuing and some economists here foresee a sharp recession.

As of today the index of industrial production hit 110 in September, according to government experts, and probably has exceeded 120 by now and may reach 120-130 before a recession—if any—reverses the tide.

That is the biggest business news in 10 years. The highest industrial production index in 1929, a boom year until the collapse of October and November, was 119.

COUNTY STUDENTS SHARE IN JUNIOR COLLEGE ACTIVITIES

Judging by Sacramento newspaper reports, current and in the recent past, El Dorado county students are having their share in the various activities at the Sacramento Junior College.

Some, by the nature of their participation in school affairs, are mentioned more often in the Sacramento press than others. Most recently, it is noted that Ruth Annette Swift, chairman of the SCA race relations committee, had an important part in arranging for visits of the students to the foreign exhibits at the world's fair this past weekend.

Book Mark

By JANE VOILES

What is a good novel to read these first chilly nights sitting by the fire? There are plenty of good new ones. Coming this month is Somerset Maugham's latest which will probably displace "Grapes of Wrath" on the best seller list. It is called "Christmas Holiday" but from what we can make out, it isn't quite as gay and innocent as its title leads you to believe. More like "Of Human Bondage," than any of Mr. Maugham's other books. It has a grim, powerful quality that is going to take hold.

If you can stand the grim kind of thing, read Dalton Trumbo's

"Johnny Got His Gun." It is the sort of novel that works on the imagination, the surest measure to keep us out of war. Mr. Trumbo's story is about a war veteran who is so injured that he has lost all way of communication with his fellows—sight, speech, hearing. How he gets himself over is the gist of the story.

Hugh Walpole has a new book out this fall. We read Hugh Walpole's works just as we eat turkey and cranberry sauce at Thanksgiving time. Like the turkey, sometimes the story is better than others. His last "The Joyful Delaneys" was a Pollyannish kind of thing. "The Sea Tower" his new book has some of the spookier horror element that made "Rebecca" such intriguing reading.

We like Ann Bridge who is never too profound or too trite. Her "Peking Picnic" is still a favorite. "Four Parts Setting" is the rather mystifying title of her new book, though it isn't going to be a mystery story. We have a few favorite authors whose new books we save for that time when we're laid up in bed with a cold. Nora Lofts is one of them. Her book doesn't cure it but can always be depended upon to make you forget it, at least. "Blossom Like the Rose," is the title of her latest. It is stirring tale of early colonial times in Massachusetts with just the right flavour of romance included.

Do you know Elizabeth Goudge's books? You may remember "The Middle Window," "City of Bells," "Towers in the Mist." She is English, by the way, still a youngish person whose father is a minister. She wanted to be an artist but luckily turned to writing. Her books can be safely recommended for old and young, male or female, rich or poor and for that happy majority who are neither too low brow nor too high brow. They make ideal gifts for Christmas or birthdays. Her new book is "The Sister of the Angels," a Christmas story. No doubt, it will be a very difficult vein from Somerset Maugham's "Christmas Holiday."

The Book of the Month Club is sponsoring two books. One is by a Hungarian with one of those unpronounceable names Zsolt de Harsanyi. It is called "The Star Gazers." Its hero is Galileo, the scientist. The other book is a life of Christ in story form by Scholem Asch: "The Nazarene." It is divided into three parts. The first is told from the point of view of a Roman official of Palestine, the second is purported to be a part of "the gospel according to Judas Iscariot" and the third is a purely Jewish interpretation. It is entirely possible that the book may take a tremendous hold on the reading public.

Another novel with a strong religious tinge is "Ararat" by Elgin Groseclose. The story has its setting in Armenia during the recent persecution of the Armenians by the Turks. The chief character is a missionary who was a coward before conversion, a character who commands the reader's respect and often admiration. The story of the Mormons is told in novel form by Vardis Fisher in his best dramatic manner. It is called "Children of God" and according to the sales lists is being widely read.

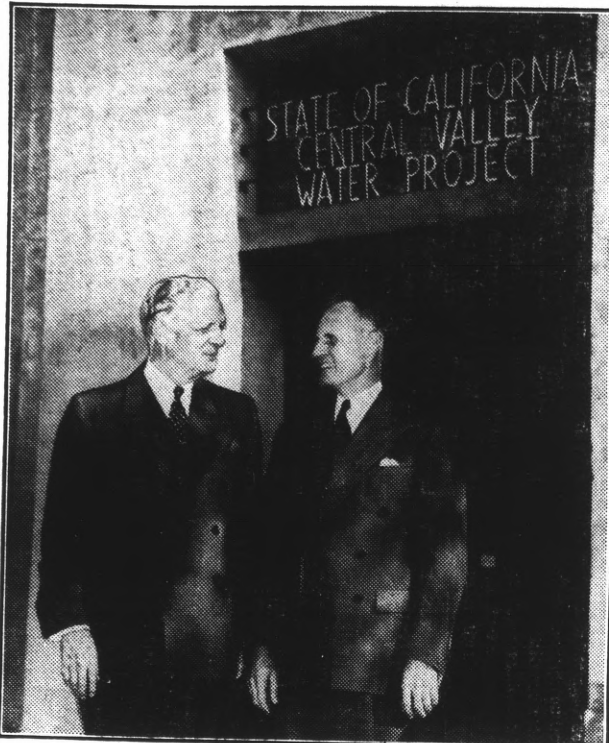

Most American writers cherish a secret ambition to write a novel about the modern American girl. Christopher Morley has just written his "Kitty Foyle." Whether it will be too slow or too speedy for you depends upon your idea of the American girl.

Perhaps you may want to read an old book or to re-read one. It's surprising sometimes, how much more you can get out of a book you read twenty years ago than you got the first time. You have more experience to bring to it, so it has more to give to you. Try Thackeray's "Vanity Fair," for leisure reading, one of these evenings. Thackeray had a way of opening his mind to the reader that some of the moderns like to call dated. We suspect it's just a plain case of sour grapes, as no one has succeeded quite so well in this engaging method as Thackeray himself.

If you want a story of straight action, get Robert Louis Stevenson's "Master of Ballantrae." Lou'll wonder why you didn't read it before.

FOX LOSES CUNNING
NYACK, N. Y. (AP) — The fox's reputation for cunning has suffered a setback. Orangetown Supervisor Robert H. Clark reported a red fox leaped into his arms while he was inspecting culverts.

Central Valley Exhibit Opened at Exposition

Sports Parade

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK (AP)—To look at them you'd never guess it, but Mike Jacobs and the British Empire have something in common.

The sun never sets on their enterprises. Mike hasn't been around quite as long as the British Empire (again you'd never guess it by looking at them), but he is just about as far-flung. The fact that he has dug up Arturo Godoy and signed him for a fight with Joe Louis is proof of that.

I doubt if any organization in the world, other than Mike Jacobs', could have located Godoy. He left here some two years ago with $8,000 in his pockets and with only a vague reference to Chile as a forwarding address.

To intimate, (members of some of hell's kitchen's finest families, by the way) he confided that once reaching Chile he planned to plunge into the interior, select a tree that cast enough shade to cover his bulk, slip off his shoes, and live until his stake was exhausted. As a man can't spend a great deal of money stretched out under a tree with his shoes off, Godoy figured his $8,000 would last him for life.

But he didn't reckon with the vast

Jacobs' organization, which, apparently, keeps a card index on every owner of a cauliflower ear in the world. It must have come as a rude shock to him when that messenger boy reached him (probably by mule pack) with an offer to fight Louis. I can visualize him, there under the tree, debating the wisdom of making the long trip north for the purpose of getting his profile battered into an even worse state of disrepair. I imagine he didn't yield until he figured out that the 17½ per cent of the gate guaranteed him would run into enough money to allow him to buy his own tree, under which he could sit until his beard twined with the branches and afforded him even better shade for the 24 hour siestas he loves so well.

Godoy won't last long with Louis, but he is likely to draw a full house into Madison Square Garden for his bout with the champion. This because he will provide good copy for the publicity machine that Jacobs keeps running night and day. Godoy can be sold to the public, no doubt about that. He holds two clear cut decisions over Tony Galento, the man who lasted four rounds with Louis and who knocked out Lou Nova.

The Chilean is the roughest fighter to show around New York in the past 10 years. Galento is a stickler for the rules compared to

Laggard In School Often Poor Reader

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

MOST children who lag or fall at school lag or fail in reading. As soon as the slow reader begins on such subjects as history, geography or civics, commonly grouped as social studies, he is likely to lag or fall in these subjects, since to learn them he must read.

The books in these subjects are all too hard for him, and to study a lesson in them may be drudgery, even torture. On the average, probably half the children above the third grade have text books too hard for them.

We expect the child to concentrate, to apply himself, to study hard. But how can he concentrate, how can he apply himself well, how can he study hard when to do so means that he must stumble over every other word or so, getting enough of them wrong to distract him and prevent him from acquiring the true sense or any sense at all? How can anybody keep his mind on a lesson with so many painful hindrances?

And then we parents and teachers are disposed to hound the slow reader, hurry him and chastise him for his slowness!

As I have often said in this column, we can help the poor reader above the second or third grade by inducing him to read from books several grades easier than the books meant for his grade. We can help him most, perhaps, if we will prevail upon him to read to pre-school children to entertain them. In doing so he naturally will read from very easy materials.

Read Easy Books

When I speak before groups of teachers, I constantly plead with them to set the child to read only from such books that are easy enough for him to read without difficulty, whatever grade he may be in, and however easy these books must be.

But what about the work he is supposed to do right now? Never mind that. He won't get it anyway at the present rate. Help him to improve his reading skill and he eventually may succeed in the regular work required. Some pupils are so poor in reading that they should not be expected to try to keep up with the regular work, for the present at least.

There are many students in the upper grades, high school, even college, who might make the grade if, in addition to a reading program such as we have recommended, some adult would read aloud to them from their assignments in such subjects as history, science, English. By hearing such subjects read to them, they easily may learn the content and, in doing so, may not only be passing grades but so gain in confidence and encouragement as to muster up far more effort at digging hard for themselves. Such home association not only has practical value for the student's school progress but also affords an excellent means of parent-child companionship.

The South American, who considers ring etiquette something for sissies. Te slaps, cuffs, backhands, knees, butts, elbows, and would gladly add biting to his repertoire if it were suggested to him. And you must say this for Arturo—he never complains about what the other fellow does to him. He can take it just as ungracefully as he hands it out.

But he is easy to hit. Even if they camouflaged him with vari-colored stripes of paint or with underbrush. Louis couldn't help landing on him. And what Louis can hit, Louis can beat. Godoy is too slow, too big, too awkward to elude the champion for more than a round or two. After that—well, he'll get stretched out. But as that is a position he likes, I don't suppose there is any need to sympathize with him.

TODAY'S PROFILE

BY UNITED PRESS

Erich Raeder, who tipped the United States regarding a purported attack on the American ship, Itasca, is known as the grand admiral with a Ph.D.

Raeder is a navy man — first, last and always. After that, he's a student. He is an accomplished writer, philosopher and psychologist. He is an avid reader, with a pronounced preference for political and historical writings. He is fond of research and likes the history—particularly the naval highlights—of Germany.

The construction of the famous "pocket battleship" — called "the ship which can run away from anything able to sink it, and sink anything capable of catching it" — was begun under Raeder's direction.

The Deutschland, christened by the late President von Hindenburg 8 years ago, was the first of these ships built. The Admiral Scheer, constructed later, recently was mentioned as responsible for the sinking of the British freighter Clement, which went down off the Brazilian coast.

Raeder comes from a family of scholars. His father was a high on him as quickly as possible and within a few moments following their arrival, Mr. Scherrer passed away.

The body was brought to Placerville from San Francisco on Monday and friends may call at the home on Sacramento Street, where the body will remain until shortly before the services Wednesday morning.

Mr. Scherrer was sixty years of age and was a native of Oakland, who moved with his parents to Georgetown in his early life and resided there for a number of years, engaging in ranching after he attained adulthood.

Subsequently he moved to Placerville and was associated with his brothers in the operation of the Placerville Bottling Works until the business was sold several years ago. Since that time he had devoted his attention chiefly to personal and school superintendent, who urged his son to study in his spare moments while in naval activity.

The grand admiral of the German navy was born April 24, 1876. He was only 18 when he entered the navy. In 1916, he was assigned the post of navigation officer on the imperial yacht Hohenzollern.

During the World War, he became chief-of-staff to Admiral Hipper, commander of the scouting force. He served on the battle cruisers Seydlitz, Lueow and Hindenburg. He saw action during the bombardment of the English coast on Nov. 2, 1914; at Dobberbank, April 24, 1915, and at Jutland, May 31, 1916.

After the World War, he became chief-of-staff on the central division of the admiralty. From 1925 to 1928, he served as chief of the marine staff in the Baltic.

He was promoted to the ranking of admiral when he succeeded Admiral Zenker as naval chief-of-staff in 1928. Eight years later, April 20, 1936, he became admiral-general in supreme command of the German navy. Then in 1939 he was advanced to the rank of grand admiral.

Admiral Raeder has authored several articles and books—the most prominent of which are "War on the Sea 1914-1918" and "The Cruiser Warfare in Foreign Waters."

property interests.

Mr. Scherrer is survived by his wife and by a daughter, Margaret, and one stepson, John Dondoro.

He was a brother of Jules Scherrer, of Represa; Frank Scherrer, of Placerville; Miss Alice Scherrer, of Burlingame, and Mrs. Mary Bathurst, of Sacramento.

Economic Conference Committees Meet

The chairmen of the various committees which were constituted at the Agricultural Economic Conference last fall were to meet Monday afternoon with Farm Advisor Ivan Lilley.

Business of the meeting was to concern a checking up on progress

It is reported that the conference will be called into general session again, some time in November.

R. Coleridge Beadon, mining engineer of London. Also from London is Beadon's associate, Jasper Howard Pearson.

The mine has a 200-foot winze and a 100-foot north and south drift. The ore body is said to be 14 feet wide and Beadon had intended constructing a pilot mill.

BOMBER DOWN

BERLIN (UP)—The German army high command announced today that a British bombing plane was shot down by German anti-aircraft fire at 1 a. m. near Grossgerau. One member of the crew was killed and three others were captured.

By UNITED PRESS

Soviet Russia confidently approached its first severe tests today in expansion of the Red zone of influence.

While the German high command was claiming still another u-boat victory over the British navy by reporting that the big battle cruiser Repulse had been badly damaged, the Moscow government's diplomatic offensive faced difficulties.

There was less talk in Nazi circles of action by Italy, although the Fascists are bound to consult with Germany before any important military moves are made and the Rome press has suddenly taken a critical view of the actions of British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

The Nazi claims to have damaged the British warship Repulse were ridiculed by the British admiralty. Forty persons were killed or wounded over the weekend in submarine attacks on three Allied merchant vessels, two of which charged that the u-boats opened fire without warning in the darkness in order to destroy the radio apparatus of the victims before sinking them. Women and children, some already in lifeboats, were among the casualties in the shell fire.
